

November 2009

The practice has evolved over 3 decades and was established 5 years ago with the amalgamation of Eugene Barnard ( EB Associates) and Ben Burger from more than 30 years of experience in various partnerships and involved for many years in the fields of CAD, both principals have been managing projects as well as assisting with determining the client brief and overseeing the entire process before construction.

BBa endeavour to build and value long term relationships with our clients from various backgrounds and then deliver the best possible architectural solutions within their unique budgetary and time frame constraints. This is really achieved by giving each project special attention and personal involvement by the principals over the entire duration of the project.

We have a very strong work ethic and also pride ourselves in providing solid advice from a knowledge base that has been researched and backed up by the years of experience.

BBa is a highly innovative Architectural practice dedicated to designing and constructing buildings of the highest quality. It is in this process of lateral thinking that the talents, skills and energy of the entire team in the practice is concentrated. Expressions of style, timeless design and added value are the basic principles by which BBa attributes its success and the personalized service lends focus to detail.

Our complete professional services include:

- Architectural concept design.
- Documentation and details for local authority submission.
- Building tenders (invitation and adjudication).
- Complete building project management.
- Financial management of building construction.
- Interior and Graphic Design.
- Space and Facility Planning.

BBa are backed up by skilled design and technical staff utilising facilities and well-developed electronic support services. All drawings are executed on DATACAD and other related application software. Architecture together with other disciplines and good urban design principles from an environmental perspective provides a harmonious connection between man and the environment. The economic science which it is, allows BBa to provide the end user with a valuable and sustainable project. BBa have extended the scope of the standard professional services and have developed expertise to provide specialised training as well as technical assistance to previously disadvantaged professionals in order to improve our own professionalism.

Our clients range from institutions, commercial firms, industrialists and developers, to private homeowners - providing us with full and varied project experience.

Each project is treated with the same enthusiasm and professionalism, regardless of the size or budget. On-site supervision ensures that the high quality of design and detail is implemented in the built product. We strive to, as much as the client will allow, provide environmentally sensitive and energy efficient design solutions.

We boast excellent working relationships with other professionals and contractors and, above all, we pride ourselves on our record of satisfied clients.

The company complies with all relevant codes of practice as laid down by the Government and Local Authorities due to our ongoing involvement with them as clients and administrators.
